As we all are about to embark on the next decade, the internet and social media sites have transformed all aspects of our lives, how we work, receive information and make decisions in our lives. Even the construction industry has adapted and embraced these changes. The ability to transmit information to the jobsite quicker and more accurately has proved invaluable to the architects, engineers, contractors and customers.

Even social media sites like Facebook and Twitter have allowed consumers to learn about new exciting construction products and cost savings tips on a daily basis. Construction DesignWorks uses these tools to inform you on not just new products and tips, but trends, news, construction product discounts and various store sales. Stay informed to catch a sale and a valuable tip by following us on both Facebook as well as Twitter.

Warm Wishes This Holiday Season!

commercial project spotlight

This 2008-09 commercial project converted and sub-divided a 2-story commercial office building near downtown old Overland Park. The project included the creation of 3 separate spaces on the 2nd floor..... a one bedroom efficiency apartment, a two bedroom apartment and this spacious office loft.

Please visit www.TwinOakVentures.com to learn more about their commercial and residential properties.
